

NORTH HOUSTON SPORTS COMPLEX | Where North Houston Rides.

Spend the day discovering three dynamic parks along Kuykendahl Road in the North Houston District. Dylan Park, North Houston Bike Park, and North Houston Skate Park are free and open to all. For safety, helmets are required when riding.

DYLAN PARK

12351 Kuykendahl Road, Houston, TX 77067
281-873-6422

Designed for every child, Dylan Park removes barriers to play with accessible features for kids with vision and hearing impairments, mobility challenges, and those on the autism spectrum. Bright colors, interactive activities, and public art fill the space with energy.

Honoring Dylan Newman, the park is a joyful place to run, explore, and chase butterflies.

NORTH HOUSTON BIKE PARK

12257 Kuykendahl Road, Houston, TX 77067
346-235-3501

Houston's largest bike park welcomes riders of all skill levels, from beginners to professional BMX athletes. Across 20 acres, you'll find concrete bowls, dirt jumps, pump tracks, a flatland freestyle zone, shaded trails, and public art.

The USA BMX track hosts races and clinics for members, and the rest of the park is free for everyone to ride.

NORTH HOUSTON SKATE PARK

12351 Kuykendahl Road, Houston, TX 77067
281-873-6422

Open to skateboarders, rollerbladers, and roller skaters alike, this 77,000-square-foot park delivers big thrills for every level.

Enjoy a competition-scale Texas-shaped bowl with a full pipe, backyard-style pools, progressive bowls, and a street course inspired by real-world skating. It's designed to help beginners build confidence and experienced riders refine their skills.
